In the heart of northern Queensland is a place the original Australians call Dimbulah. It means 'Long Watering Hole'. The people who discovered it felt that the land had a 'seed power', conferred in the Dreamtime of its creation and made more powerful by the passing of millennia.

We grow coffee there, and we're not arguing. The seeds we plant at Dimbulah Mountain Estate grow strong and tall. The cherries on the bushes ripen all together, as if by order, and the beans are of an extraordinary quality.

From our Dimbulah Mountain Estate Plantation we bring you this exceptional Arabica coffee cared for by us from the planting of the seed to serving in the cup. Please enjoy this rare coffee, we certainly enjoyed preparing it - starting right back on the plantation

We have a selection of really interesting quality Australian and New Zealand wines, where some of the world's finest in their respective categories are to be found.

Keep an eye on this list as we search around in the far corners of both countries and update it regularly. One glass is never enough, so we serve all our wines in two sizes of carafe, or by the bottle. This is a great way to pair wines with different plates on our menu.
